

Veronique Sanson

"Sad Limousine"

Visit "Sad Limousine" on MotoLyrics.com

You drove me to the airport in a sad, sad limousine.
You told me that you loved me
But do you know what the words mean ?

So bye-bye, my friend, goodbye, I must face the road
alone
But I'll make it, I'll make it, I'll make it on my own.

Gazing through the window of your sad, sad limousine
We talked about the future
While thinking about what might have been.

So bye-bye, my friend, goodbye, I must face the road
alone
But I'll make it, I'll make it, I'll make it on my own.

Butterflies among the alibis, quick goodbyes
Amid a room full of strangers, broken ties wrapped up my silent lies
Trying hard not to scream.
Crowded aisles of unconvincing smiles
Clocks and dials beat out the time, as you find me standing here
Watching you disappear in your sad limousine.

So bye-bye, my friend, goodbye, I must face the road
alone
But I'll make it, I'll make it, I'll make it on my own.
Bye-bye, my friend, goodbye, your eyes say all there is to stay
But I'll make it, I'll make it, tomorrow is another day.
Bye-bye, my friend, goodbye, I must face the road
alone
But I'll make it, I'll make it, in the end, we're all alone.

Visit Veronique Sanson page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.