"Everything You Were"

So much more than just a shell
But you can't fucking see
You love what's fucking cool
More than the air that you breathe
You could change the hair
You could change the clothes
But this is more than fucking style
It's the ideals that we hold
I don't need a gimmick to set my self apart
I know true revolution only starts when it's within your heart
I've watched so many go, I've watched so many change
Falling victim of a trend and going back on everything
Everything that you were Now you just pretend, that you had never been
A part of this at all
So many change
I'll still remain!
