Silence - because you're scared to speak
Hopeless - because you know it's gone
Afraid - because you can't let go

Well I've said all I can say
But wait there must be more.
It won't amount to what we need,
But hear me out this means too much to me.

And then you scream, because you're a part of me
Just let this all fall down around you
And still you scream, because you're a part of me
Just let the rain fall down around you

You're running out, you're running out of time
(This is the End)
Gotta find yourself the reasons
Why you've thrown this all away
You're running out, you're running out of here
(This is the End)
And you don't know where you're headed
But you keep going on anyway

I'm sealing my own fate,
And you can have these breaths I take
I'm laying face down on the ground,

In a sea of all my own mistakes
My words are only worthless,
Although I've said all I can say
And you can have this all,
Oh God this is the end of me

And then you scream, because you're a part of me
Just let this all fall down around you
And still you scream, because you're a part of me
Just let the rain fall down around you

You're running out, you're running out of time
(This is the End)
Gotta find yourself the reasons
Why you've thrown this all away

You're running out, you're running out of here
(This is the End)
And you don't know where you're headed
But you keep going on anyway

Being lost has never felt this alone
But I'm only getting what I deserve
The door to this chapter has finally closed
And the ending is more than I can bear
