You held me there in your hand
When I was nothing but clay
You breathed your life into me
You whispered my name

So who but you
Could truly understand
What I'm made of
You know who I am

Nobody knows me better
It's like nobody's ever known me before
Nobody knows me better than you
Nobody loves me, nobody loves me more

Sometimes I question my heart
Why do I do what I do?
And then I wonder how one
Like me could be loved by you
Now there's no reason for me to pretend
You see it all
And still you can call me Friend.

I want to know you just like you know me
For to know you is to love you
That's my destiny
