sitting in class, bored, nothing to do at times like this, I think of you yes, I said I think of you all day long but I'm trying to forget you now that you're gone at quiet moments, you enter my mind again and quietly, a prayer to God I send I ask Him to please take care of you and also for Him not to be so cruel why must He keep you here in my heart? especially since now that we're so far apart? but it's okay; no way I can blame the guy surely He sees something right in His eyes but I hurt so much, please let me forget her I can't move on, in my mind's a rupture haven't even seen her in nearly a year yet, I can't wipe away my forever tears why can't I forget her, what must I do? every time I ask myself this, emotions brew 'cause deep inside I know why I can't forget I've known the answer since we first met

Rhetorical questions keep coming into my mind I know I can't ever leave the past behind Can't forget her 'cause I still love her, yes I do And I don't want to... I won't...
I CAN'T forget her... won't allow myself to
