Rainy days may go away but they will always return You must be strong to face those days or else you'll be burned

Sunny days may go astray but they'll come back around

You must have the strength to pull yourself off the ground

Don't wait until a new year to make your resolutions Experiences are the stepping stones towards your ascension Problems come and problems go, they're inevitable
The truth is that life is barely ever fully calm and stable

Every one of us needs love and courage to continue on Through the dark of darkness lies the brightness of dawn

A patient lies in a hospital bed, struggling just to breathe
The wounded fight for every breath, a tougher battle than you'd believe Lying there suffering, he realizes what's he's taken for granted
Don't try to change a stormy day, change how you see things instead

A girl with a broken heart feels her world crashing down
But through her tears she has the courage to try to rebound
Even those who hurt should know that there can be a better day Pull yourself together, breed some courage and you'll be okay

Someone who lost a person he loved cannot stop the pain
But through the torture he remembers the good memories he's obtained If the future looks too bleak, sometimes the past can help remind you

That you have been strong before, and this time, you can still make it through

Every one of us needs love and courage to continue on
dawn
