Throw off my blankets and slip out of bed
Can't breathe too well, a mess in my head
Turn on the lights, but they hurt my eyes
Run to the door, I gotta get outside

Wait for the elevator, it takes too long
Look for the stairs, tell myself to be strong
Two steps at a time, quickly up the stairs
Slip and fall a few times but I don't care

Reach the roof, the exit door is stuck
Can't kick it open, this is just my luck
See another door right behind me
Run towards it but trip and fall on my knees

When I get outside, I take gulps of air
Barely any lights, just me and darkness here
The cold air starts to sting at my lungs
Will the rest of my life go unsung?
