

Victor Ly

"Untitled"

Visit "Untitled" on MotoLyrics.com

The 13-year old boy looks out his window and sees his 20-year old sister out go Stuck at home, the boy thinks, "This blows"
and questions why he grows up so slow.

The 20-year old girl tries to drink her pain away
which is the same thing she does every single day
"If only I could be thirteen again," she says
"If only there were no worries so I could just play."

She sees a 35-year old lady walk into the bar
her husband on her arm, and in his mouth a cigar
"How lucky she must be, he treats her like a star,"
the girl thinks as she starts to play on her guitar.

Into the ladies' room the 35-year old goes
She fixes her makeup so her face can glow
She blinks and a tear falls down to her clothes
Then fights hard and tries to be cool and composed.

She knocks into a girl and tells her, "Pardon me"
and thinks to herself, "That girl seems so carefree."

Visit Victor Ly page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.