Doesn't matter what you do
You can do it again but it wont get through
'Cause you've been talking hurricanes and storms
It's been raining hard but my umbrella's strong

Pseudo dictator
Handsome Hitler
Putting drugs in my tea again
Arsenic for flavor you're a heavy metal lover
Why can't you just say you don't want me around?

That heart is made of paper mache
It's been hiding in a cave waiting for wind to set it's sail
But you never could appreciate the real thing
Until he was 6 feet under the ceiling

With a coat and a cane and a very big name
In a car that takes up too many lanes
Guess I should have known, I really knew all along
You can't judge a house by an exterior view

You were the one back in the 2nd grade
Screaming for attention, Playing aggressive games
While hiding under an angel's face
For all that you lacked
I'm sure you never replaced

Pseudo dictator
Handsome Hitler
Putting drugs in my tea again
Why can't you just say you don't want me around?
