After ages of war I try to compensate,
For the lifes that I took in anger.
Sad reminder of death's been so hard to erase.
Might aswell just go with hatred.

My failure, my failure, my failure was I killed my saviour.

Nothing left to win, nothing left to die for.
Nothing left but sin, and a wish to die.

Celebration of peace is just hypocrisy, as it's not my real intension.
I'm reloading my guns to go another round.
I see death as my own invention.

Creation, creation, creation of my own damnation.

Nothing left to win, nothing left to die for.
Nothing left but sin, and a wish to die.

Innocence, my innocence is gone.

After ages of of war I try to compensate,
For the lifes that I took in anger.
Sad reminder of death's been so hard to erase.
Might aswell just go with hatred.

saviour.

Nothing left to win, nothing left to die for.
Nothing left but sin, and a wish to die.

Innocence, my innocence is gone.
