Your saying nothing, to make the fire grow.

Living with today's memories. Moving into something so terrifying. Creating our own realities. Defining the beginning of something new.

What are we left with? This broken memory?

Your saying nothing, to make the fire grow. It seems so far away now, thought it's never been so close.

As much as the battle cry is held up, it is forgotten the second a hardship is occurred it is forgotten. Forget the people that drag you down.

Burn down everything that means nothing. Destroy the tools that destroy you. Burn down everthing, burn it down.

Whether or not it sounds trite, please remember to forget. (x2)
