You waste your time to find an answer
You say your life's a bunch of scraps
Search for the reason that keeps you down
Sighing out, but there's no land here all around

No way to stand to see you suffer
You're digging traps you step right in Hey, there's a way for anyone who's waiting
And there's a road for everyone to go

I want you to know
For all that you do
Well, it's not too late to rearrange
The pieces of your heart that made you go insane

So if you're looking for solutions
And you're still waiting for the day
That brings you sunrise and lights
The shade from all the pain and misery, that's why I say:

I want you to know
For all that you do
Well, it's not too late to rearrange
The pieces of your heart that made you go insane

There are times of joy and times of pain
And we feel we waste our lives just standing up again...

And if you're looking for a reason
You'll never find
You better try
To move along the road you're leaving
Never to fear
Love is a lie

And if you're looking for an answer
Don't waste your time
Longing to feel
Like any other day you suffered
Back in the days

Life wasn't real
