How long will I walk alone
Asking the questions that I condone
It's alright I don't relate
All of life's problems, undecided fate
It's always the wicked ones
Who run in the wardrobe before the games begun
I can't quite understand
All of the answers of our dying men

It's okay provided we straggle on
It's okay these battlescars linger on

Can we always complicate
All of life's problems, an open debate
I swallow my soul and pride
I choked all the demons that I'm keeping inside
How long will my journey take
Across all it's hills and it's life I escape
I walk through but not too far
Taking with me my battlescars

It's okay provided we straggle on
It's okay these battlescars linger on
