The girl across the road lives in a tower
I just dropped by to say hi
Then we talked for hours
Life after Death
Hopes dreams and wounds
Thursday we'll meet afternoon

She wants to live happily after I'm told.
But Ella how can you you've lost control
But More then the air that I breathe I believe in your soul.

Cause I don't live far away
You and I can live the life of yesterday
She says "take me far away from here,
They will never notice If I disappear, tonight".

Once upon a time in her story they talk of the good life but live contradictory
She speaks of the rules that keep her in chains
She wishes she could live a cliché

Ella lives happily after I'm told
That line of conversation get's old to you
And more then the air that I breathe, I still grieve for your soul.

Cause I don't live far away
You and I can live the life of yesterday.
She says take me far away from here, they will never notice If I disappear.

Always afraid that they'll throw away the key
A princess kept in cruel captivity
She asks of the mirror on the wall "what do you see"?
Her reflection says here's your enemy.

I don't live far away
You and I can live the life of yesterday
She says take me far away from here
They will never notice if I disappear.
