Guess you should have known that I end up alone
I saw so many signs, but I kept my eyes closed
But everybody said that you are good as gone
And I should let you go, but I keep holding on.

And now I'm driving and I'm dying and I'm cursing your name
There are clouds filling the skies and it's starting to rain.

You told me we will gonna be forever
Heaven or hell, for worse or better
But you had your fingers crossed, yeah, you think it's so clever
Just run through this town like a patch of bad weather.
Run through this town like a patch of bad weather.

Look at this aftermath, it happened just like that You lay it all away so I can't get it back I wonder where you are and who's your fool
I hope you're off again and that they are into you.

And now I'm driving and I'm dying and I'm
cursing your name
There are clouds filling the skies and it's starting to rain.

You told me we will gonna be forever
Heaven or hell, for worse or better
But you had your fingers crossed, yeah, you think
it's so clever
Run through this town like a patch of bad weather.
Run through this town like a patch of bad weather.

You think it's so cool, yeah, you think it's so clever
Just run through this town like a patch of bad weather.
Yeah, like a patch of bad weather.
