Take your silly words and listen to yourself,
'cause I'm living my life tonight
And nothing's gonna hurt me,
Can't you understand that I can be myself
Without everything, without anything,
Without any help from you now

We're not having fun, we never really laughed,
We have to get things right before we end ourselves

What about me? Do you care enough to see
That I can't live my life this way
And that you don't understand?
What about me? Am I the one who's going down,
'cause sometimes I can't find myself
I'm wondering if this is really me?

I remember those days when we first met,
How simple things were then,
With no heartache and no pain
Now things change so fast that we must take the time
To talk things over
And listen to our minds.

We're not having fun, we never really laughed,
We have to get things right before we end ourselves

What about me? Do you care enough to see
That I can't live my life this way
And that you don't understand?
What about me? Am I the one who's going down,
'cause sometimes I can't find myself
I'm wondering if this is really me?

You're right, I'm wrong
'cause all the things we've done
Have never been in fun
I'm right, you're wrong
'cause all the things we've done
Can never be undone
