My eyes burn from these tears
You think you'd learn over these years
Good things won't last forever

So what the hell am I suppose to do
You only wanted the things I couldn't give to you
And you had it all anyway

So take take everything and leave me scrambling Reaching for something that wasn't there in the first place

Reaching for something that wasn't there in the first
place

Tell me i'm wrong when I say
I can't expect you to stay forever with me
I live for that single moment

I take back everything i've said
You would those words on your lips
As if they meant anything anyway

Sometimes I feel I could drop off the face of the earth
It seems I do more harm than good
And I don't know if it's worth me loosing sleep over this

Reaching for something that wasn't there in the first
place

Reaching for something that wasn't there in the first
place

Tell me I'm wrong when I say it
I can't expect you to spend forever with me
I live for that single moment

Reaching for something that wasn't there in the first

place
