Looking back in anger, looking back with joy and laughs
Don't ask me all those questions, 'cause I don't have the answers now
I tried to hold back all my thoughts and all my dreams Just to make things better, I was using myself past my means

But all those days are gone
And I can't find the path that I should follow
I'm walking unknown land

Mile after mile I search the way back to my mind
And I cannot believe how hard it is to find
When I'm down

I used to make things easy, I used to be a happy guy
But now things seem so different, that I can't even play that game
I got to try to find the way through all this now So what I need now is someone, someone to read the map
'Cause I don't know how

So all those days are gone
And I can't find the path that I should follow
I'm walking unknown land

Mile after mile I search the way back to my mind
And I cannot believe how hard it is to find
When I'm down

I feel ashamed and I'm to blame
'Cause I tried to be, I tried to see things from my side
And I also bleed, I also need some space
It's time to close this case

All those days are gone
And I can't find the path that I should follow
I'm walking unknown land

Mile after mile I search the way back to my mind

And I cannot believe how hard it is to find Mile after mile I search the all the things that I can't find without you now
