I don't know where to start
Staring at a blank page and it breaks my heart
So many things I want to say
But I don't wanna use words that tear you apart

I wish I was a better man but I'm just a child
Searching for answers that I can't give you

So don't go changing our broken hearts
And don't go wasting our fragile love
If we build it up, we break it down
If we let it fly it'll hit the ground
So don't go changing our broken hearts
'Cause it's broken to make you whole

I find it strange to realize
What's in my head is not what's inside my heart
Too much of everything
Can make you forget about the little things
That can lift you up and make you live

And even though I won't be there
To live the dreams we used to share
All that I am, I gave it to you

So I'll let you go now
I'm breaking the chain
I wished that I could teach you everything I was hoping to
But I guess it's me that's gotta learn from you

So don't go changing our broken hearts
And don't go wasting our fragile love
If we build it up, we break it down
If we let it fly it'll hit the ground
So don't go changing our broken hearts
'Cause it's broken to make you whole
