Pamela, Pamela remember the days
Of inkwells and apples and books and school plays
Where little Brer Rabbit kissed Pooh in the wood
And Fluff was the cat that sat on the rug

Oh, Pamela I remember so well
When Laurel and Hardy were shown at the flicks
With sticky red lollies on splintery sticks
Pigtails and ribbons and crushes on miss

Secret discussions about a first kiss
But you were young and everything was new
Impatient to do things you couldn't do

Oh, Pamela, Pamela you started to grow
Answers to questions you wanted to know
When the rest of your childhood forgets as a dream
And the harshness of life dims those peaches and cream

When Laurel and Hardy were shown at the flicks
With sticky red lollies on splintery sticks
Pigtails and ribbons and crushes on miss
Secret discussions about a first kiss
But you were young and everything was new
Impatient to do things you couldn't do
