They never told us what we wanted
They never told us what we'd need
They only taught us how to read and write
Then they taught us how to bleed.

You always told me not to argue
You always told me to believe
That everything in life would work out fine
That God would give us what we need.

So why do I feel like I'm losing control?

I can't believe in anyone but you
I've tried and I've tried, but I can't deny everything you said was true.
I'm drawing my line in the sand.
Because I can't ignore my heart anymore
Stop fooling yourself. Cuz one day you'll be a stranger to everyone else.

They never told us how to deal with heartbreak
Or the days our lives will change.
Hell, everything I've ever learned in life, I learned it by mistake.
When will these memories end, and when will my life
begin?
I'm starting to feel left out.
