Falling through the roof, I should've been more careful
That I'll be hanging on the wire
Sick of these mistakes, they're keeping me awake
And now my eyes are getting tired
I sometimes feel like we all think the same
What is to say, when everything might change?

Sliding down the wall
Never felt like this before
It's been a hell of a day so take me away

Because I've been a fool for the first time
I thought that everything was fine
Well I guess I'm paying for my crimes
But I'm still trying
To keep my cool in the meantime
Even though this mountain's hard to climb
I won't let this world pass me by,
I won't let it pass me by

I think I know a good place
Where I can get my head on straight.
Out here in the open space
Where I can see with my own eyes.
I finally realize the sun's gonna always rise
(Sun will always rise)
It's never too late, to be on your way, just change the pace
And keep on running.

Take me in to the light,
Show me things that would change my life
It's been a hell of a day so take me away

Because I've been a fool for the first time
I thought that everything was fine
Well I guess I'm paying for my crimes
But I'm still trying
To keep my cool in the meantime
Even though this mountain's hard to climb
I won't let this world pass me by,

I won't let it pass me by.

I hope that someday we will all be here together
Though the times are changing I'm gonna make all this better
If I had a penny for every time that I could Yes I know that you told me...

I've been a fool for the first time
I thought that everything was fine
Well I guess I'm paying for my crimes
But I'm still trying
To keep my cool in the meantime
Even though this mountain's hard to climb
I won't let this world pass me by,
I won't let it pass me by

No I won't let it pass me by
Even though this mountain's hard to climb
No I won't let it pass me by
No I won't let it pass me by
