When I was young I used to think that I would never change
I somehow got it in my head that life would stay the same
And looking back I wish I had someone to tell me I was wrong
I spent so much time trying to fit in where I did not belong

We're all young and dumb and reckless
Confused but not defenseless
We'd rather live our lives regretless
Than cover someone else's setlist
We make our music for ourselves
Not for endless masses
We're just being who we are
We're just being who we are

Sing along now every one two three four I was everything I swore I would never fucking be before
This is me putting my foot down
Cause this is who we are
We won't change for anyone
We're not reaching for the stars

We're all young and dumb and reckless
Confused but not defenseless
We'd rather live our lives regretless
Than cover someone else's setlist
We make our music for ourselves
Not for endless masses
We're just being who we are
We're just being who we are

We're just being who we are
And there's nothing you can say
To take that away

We're just being who we are
And you can't take that away
