Trust in me and I'll trust in you,
She slipped me her tongue and whispered don't you worry
I said my name is isolation and I'd hate to be the bearer of bad news
Panic is setting in I'm drowning at your feet Take every precaution design a brand new place to stay calm Her beauty found it's way to yours and you've got nothing else
Girl, you've got the adjectives
I can't control my shakes I can't control my mind I'm pacing over and over again
I like the way you move and the way you sway I'm writing all the words down in the palm of my hand
And the way your hair moves in the wind Draw every angle out now right in front of you She makes you feel like you're dangerous Though I know we're fine we will be fine always keep a steady mind Another soul to capture you wasted your whole life on us
How could this happen to me How could I fall in love with the devil? won't you tell me why She loves sound your heart slowing; inhale your very will to survive Please stop me from sleeping but don't keep me from my dreaming
I took your name in vain
