When did I lose my voice

When did I make the chorus too big

Leaving so easy in the quiet

Too much of restless thinking

But this is time losing everything

You came on opened up the silence

So I lay awake

Write the symphony

Try to sign me

But now I know

What you give to me

I'm living with the poet's heart, heart

Now that the lights turn on and they never gonna stop

As the words come out is because you lit the spark

You're priceless, timeless precious work of art

Now every way you are

I'm living with the poet's heart

Whispered to me again

Your phone from ears straight to my pen

How did you see right through

It's like you're always you

I lay awake

Write the symphony

You're open me

Cos now I know

What you sing to me

I'm living with the poet's heart, heart

Now that the lights turn on and they never gonna stop

As the words come out is because you lit the spark

You're priceless, timeless precious work of art

Now every way you are

I'm living with the poet's heart

Oh oh

So let's lay awake

Making the history

Yeah, you and me

Cos now we know

So what you sing to me

Our melody, yeah

Now that the lights turn on and they never gonna stop

As the words come out is because you lit the spark

You're priceless, timeless precious work of art

Now every way you are

I'm living with the poet's heart heart heart heart

Now my feet won't touch the ground

Yeah we're flying high all round

Take my hands yeah, just like that

We'll keep brightening, brightening

Don't look back, don't look back, no no
