Faced with a lifelong decision, that is a regiment of our disaster.

We will she'd your blood to excel ourselves to a higher power.

I'm Looking behind the lines in a chase that is as distant

As a god that walks the earth.

Decimating the abundance of believer's that can't even begin to question.

A Death?

A simple opportunity for us to look back on a world that has crumbled so vastly.

Where we can't even look in ourselves to continue we must rely on this faith I have lost.

I will stand where my father once died, to see if he shall rise again.
