She was just growing up
She was bright
She had a mother, who loved her
And she never knew they'd take her away
But now she is gone
But she'll always be here, to love

She wasn't ready to go
She just wanted us to know

She was walking on a tightrope,
She didn't want to fall, but she never had the chance
Tell us one last time to make us realize
That she would of had a smile on her face
For tomorrow might not come like yesterday
She was right

She was young and so beautiful
She had a father, who held her
He never thought he'd have to let her go
But now she is gone
But she'll always be here, to love

She never wanted to leave
She just wanted us to see

She was walking on a tightrope,
She didn't want to fall, but she never had the chance
Tell us one last time to make us realize
That she would of had a smile on her face
For tomorrow might not come like yesterday

She said to live and laugh
To love and breathe
To never waste a second
To move along
To sing this song, and never hold back
Cause tomorrow might not come like yesterday

Ashley had everything
She had a mother, and a father
And they loved her

And they didn't wanna say it
Just so young
It just takes one mistake
To throw your life away
