You're so cold
But now that I know you'll have a hard time breaking
me up
You're so cold
And now that I know this is the last time you're shaking
me up

Went to your roof party dressed to the nines
And I
I talk pilates with your sinister friends
I laughed at jokes about this misery
I licked your boots up when you spilt all your wine

(prechorus)
I want you to notice
That I could turn and walk away
I'm serving a purpose
I'm keeping the frost off your heart darling

(Chorus)
You're so cold
(now I know)
And for the last time it's taking it's toll
You're so cold
(now I know)
Tonight's the night honey you should be told

I fix your lamp shade
Deal with police and I
I saved your high heels when they fell from the sky
I saw your eyes roll when I cut loose my feet (whoa)
You fell asleep and now I'm paying the price

(prechorus)
I want you to notice
That I could turn and walk away
I'm serving a purpose
Just watching your luck and we've tried honey

(Chorus)

You're so cold
Now I know
And for the last time it's taking its toll
You're so cold
Now I know
Tonight's the night honey you should be told

I show up
I'm let down
Just shut up
And cool out

I'm giving the notice
I know I should've walked away
My efforts are worthless
It's just another evening in the service of the queen, darling

(Chorus)
You're so cold
Now I know
Tonight's the night honey you should be told
You're so cold
Now I know
And for the last time it's taking its toll
You're so cold
Now I know
Taking my boots off sugar
You're so cold
And now that I know this is the last time you're breaking
me up
