Look at this lonely town with the graveyards in the center with angels on the markers in the dark and you understand what I I mean when I say that I'm heartless just like flint that never sparks

I'd hate to leave you
I'd love to leave you for good
I'd hate to leave you
I'd love to leave you for good

Look at the dancelit sky with the people gathered outside waiting for the services that night and afterwards they'll sing sing in the streets about the coming of the days that try our rights do they realize that everyones to blame and we sit back and act like we're ashamed when really there's no end to the ignorance to fend off that puts them all against the rain

I'd hate to leave you
I'd love to leave you for good
I'd hate to leave you
I'd love to leave you for good

I'd hate to leave you
I'd love to leave you for good
I'd hate to leave you
I'd love to leave you for good
