A community with an open mind- who only accepts a certain kind-filled with optimism and unity- intelligence and diversity- where bigotry and hatred is shunned- and equality is raised above- but a feeling of alienation still persists- a constant struggle which we must overcome- Is it in my head- a figment of my imagination- or a harsh reality that can never be escaped- ingrained in our minds and attempted to be ignored- a fight between realism and idealism- a fight which we cannot afford- The mind like a sponge brainwashed from birth- without given a chance stripped from all self worth- programmed to be powerless and taught to submit- turn over all control and be forced to forfeit- obey the norms of society our gender roles set in stone- stuck in a vicious cycle crating yet another clone- abide by the rules to never speak up- for our Utopian world needs no disrupt-It is suitable for all- each gender class and race- discriminates against no one- so keep that grin on your face- A community with an open mind- who only accepts a certain kind- until one day challenged by its people- by finally speaking up- given the chance to resist-the world of hypocrisy that persists- in this world which existswe must detest- Empower yourself- Learn to speak up- It's time to disrupt- This stagnant structure.
