Some things I thought might be better left unsaid
I kept them bottled up with a message that read
I'd hate to see this change at all

I can't get to sleep
I miss the way that your lips taste
On hot summer nights
I know you're feeling the same way
I know you're thinking about me
And the plans that we've made
It's just the distance and space
I can't wait to come home

You laughed it off
When everyone you know
Said "don't wait, he'll just waste your time"
You have my back
So I'm by your side
And I'll never let this go

This December won't feel so cold
I promise this time (finally)
I'll be closer than a phone call away
I just thought that you should know

With all I've got I hope to god that I
Can find a way to stay afloat with you
I've ground my knuckles to the bone
And I've swallowed fire to keep you warm

You laughed it off
When everyone you know
Said "don't wait, he'll just waste your time"
You have my back
So I'm by your side
And I'll never let this go

This December won't feel so cold
I promise this time (finally)
I'll be closer than a phone call away
I just thought that you should know

I just thought that you should know
