Been temperamental forward
Towards the life you've chosen
Never thought about the ride
Going down your road

I can't afford to mention
Cause you never pay attention
Someday I will have a clue
What's going on

But if you want to leave, from the past you've seen
And the pain is so real, and it's so strong
And every breath you take, has now gone away
And the pill you've taken, has now worn off

Let it out, let it out

If I could only see where you've been
And how you've been living
And where's that place that you call home

Everything that you've been through
Has only helped me get to know you
Most amazing soul I've ever known

But if you want to leave, from the past you've seen
And the pain is so real, and it's so strong
And every breath you take, has now gone away
And the pill you've taken, has now worn off

Let it out, let it out

Seems like you've found your way from this road that you're on
You've made so much progress, look what you've become

Let it out, let it out (x4)
