"Riding The Twilight"

Dark and shiny though far and close
Hiding in the thoughts yet it shows
Travelling in the speed of light
Where all sadness become delight

Death and mercy show tears and laugh
All in one to end at last
Ride, riding the might

Distant echoes hardly ever heard
Sounding so crystal clear to me
In this timeless charade I live
And this fearless belief I breathe

Heal and hurt while come and go
Oh, embrace and disgrace the world
Ride, riding the might

Riding the twilight

Riding the twilight
Riding the twilight
Riding the twilight till the morning light.

Fire and lighting from above are shown
And the one last drop of consciousness left
Has me do what I hadn't ever dreamt of

Riding, riding, riding

For the blend of light and dark I long
And they strike on me and in one we merge
For as long as my soul is a twilight my wounds are blessed

Riding, riding, riding
Look at me now
I'm floating around
Riding, riding, riding
