Captured in a moment where your day is a freeze Things don't 'tend to happen like before but you're at ease

Strangers come and go but you're still stuck in time
As long as you stand aside, you'll never feel alive

Your heart is a fire, but sometimes it's so cold Doesn't matter if you're young when you're feeling old Sometimes you can't make it real but you have to feel that you tried to make things real, the answer is not always that clear

Here I am - won't you come outside
The door is open - can you find your shine

Visions is all that matters, it's reality gives you strength never regret your way, the past or where you went All the tears you've cried will be memories

Here I am - won't you come outside
The door is open - can you find your shine

Captured in a moment where your day is a freeze Things don't 'tend to happen like before but you are at
ease
Strangers come and go but you're still stuck in time...

You'll never feel alive
