[Intro]

..thats not a solution, thats only confusion, and now you've gon' trapped yourself in every way

[chorus]

so where you gonna run now?
nobody makes it alone so, so where you gonna run
now?
no more places to hide so, so where you gonna run
now?
no more places to stay so, so where you gonna run
now?
..eventually you get caught

trouble maker, in her teens, all us love or hate her seeks attention, makes a scene wherever her mother takes her curses her out, her attitude is worse than her mouth used to work in the south, till her aunt there kicked her out
raising hell, acts invincible, yelled back and spit at you, held back in middle school, expelled, slapped the principal wild n' out, nothing to be wild about, when her mom keeps her up-to-date with every style thats out long island house, got her own room, behaved and saved for a crib and a car - she'll have her own soon but she's very unappreciative, gives all the credit to her dad but the secret is her mom made 'em keep the kid doesnt go to school, just another joint case, trespassed through the high school, and screamed to his face, cant go home - police waiting, she runs away from her problems but they keep chasing...

[chorus]

nobody makes it alone so, so where you gonna run
now?
no more places to hide so, so where you gonna run
now?

now?

pops up on her Pop's porch - my little girl came to see me!
man its been awhile -thats what her pops thought she got free at her pops crib, thought her mom was being cruel, thought her father had no set of rules but he got his - chores, mop the floors, then scrub the walls, after 8 - no noise, no calls, no boys, mow the lawn, wash the car and dishes, clean the kitchen, be sure to excercise your curfew's at 9 was gonna show her how to drive, she couldnt wait for her father to arrive the mischeif only keeps her occupied. takes the keys while he went golfing, she drove but not often, the store wasnt that far - she coulda just walked it foot slips off the gas, but to avoid the crash, hits a woman coming outta the mall carrying bags hit and ran, thought she was driving safe, a customer inside the gate of the parking lot got the license plate she parks it back in the garage, paint scratched, tried to match it with on the car with nail polish so the accident was solved cops drove up asked um, sir do you own a maxima? she was gone before they thought of asking her...

[chorus]

nobody makes it alone so, so where you gonna run now?
no more places to hide so, so where you gonna run now?
no more places to stay so, so where you gonna run now?

calls her aunt upstate with the estate houses by the lake she said i dont want that drama down here calls her ex-boyfriend that moved to portland oregon to get away he said i dont want that drama down here calls her cousin in Miami but her family called there before she did they said we dont want that drama down here last call to her uncle but he's unaware he said why dont you call your mom and dad? shes like yeah..great idea whole city looking for her, things escalated, since the slashing and the hit and run in brooklyn where they saw her changed her hairstyle - now in staten island because she knows her grandma would never give up her grandchild blind in one eye, she could barely see who it was, family always say they visit, but nobody does through the screen door recognized, the voice and was surprised, loneliness was in her eyes as she brushes her aside does your mom know your here? but really didnt care - she was so delighted catching up with things and trying to feed her...grandma ran out of sugar ill go to the store for you - she gets the purse but not without going through it first she opens the door, cops hiding in the bushes and trees, got their rifle wedged in her temple yelling Freeze!
