Woke up from sleeping in my car
Still got my clothes on Hung up with how we got to star
In another sad song
I've got a friend who needs to fight
For something long gone
But what I really need to find
Is unconditional

Does it really matter to thin I'm going nowhere
Does it really matter today
When it feels like the world's slowly crumbling down on me
Well just let it break

I recall a day
When I fellinto the rain with you
Whatever came our way
We'd laugh and we would make it trthough

Well it's hard to say you're ding well
When no one's listening
Your mags, you tvshows that thell
Of what I'm missing
I recall a day

Does it really matter to thin I'm going nowhere
Does it really matter today
When it feels like the world's slowly crumbling down on
me
Well just let it break

I recall a day
When I fellinto the rain with you
Whatever came our way
We'd laugh and we would make it trthough

I remember days when nothing could compare to you
And this tonight I would like to think
That maybe
We could be alright

We could dance and we'd be

I remember days when nothing could compare to you

I recall a day

When I fell into the rain with you

Whatever came our way

We'd laugh and we would make it through

I recall a day

When I fell into the rain with you

Whatever came our way

We'd laugh and we would make it through

I fell into the rain with you

I fell into the rain with you

I fell into the rain with you

I fell into the rain with you
