Road song

No one compares to you now
I swear that I've been longing to get to you somehow
Like candles burning in the night
It's obvious there can't be held a candle to your kind

You keep on drawing me right into your shine
You keep me wondering where you were for all this time

come on and be my place to hide
I'll be your rescue, your partner in crime
Well be taking their thunder
And steal their time
Well sleep in the road just like
Bonnie and Clyde

Morning comes with the light of day Whatever will be happening things will never be the same
Nothing can ever chain us now
Instead of all the shallowness your lives will be profuond
In the rearview all the things that lay behind
Will vanish with the sky and sunset your eyes

Come on and be my place to hide
I'll be your rescue, your partner in crime
Well be taking their thunder
And steal their time
Well sleep in the road just like
Bonnie and Clyde

And the monster trucks don't sleep
The drive by at double speed
An the neon signs they weep
And blind our eyes
Yeah

No one compares to you now

I swear that I've been longing to get to you somehow

Come on and be my place to hide
I'll be your rescue

Sleep in the road just like
Bonnie and Clyde
