We fail to see,
How destructive we can be,
Taking without giving back,til the damage can be seen.
Can you see?
Can you see?

The more you take,the more you blame
But everything still feels the same,
The more you hurt,the more you strain
The price you pay to play the game
And all you seek,and all you gain
And all you step on with no shame
There are no rules,noone to blame
The price to play the game...

Apathy,the chosen way to be
Blindly look the other way,
While you waste away with me
Can you see?
Can you see?

The more you take,the more you blame,
But everything still feels the same,
The more you hurt,the more you strain
The price you pay to play the game,
And all you seek,and all you gain
And all you step on with no shame.
There are no rules,noone to blame
The price you pay to play the game.

What you pay to play the game
What you pay to play the game,
What you pay to play the game,
What you pay to play the game.

The more you take,the more you blame,
But everything still feels the same,
The more you hurt,the more you strain
The price you pay to play the game,
And all you seek,and all you gain
And all you step on with no shame,

There are no rules, no one to blame
The price you pay to play the game.

What you pay to play the game,
What you pay to play the game,
What you pay to play the game
What you pay to play the game.
