Woke up from sleeping in my car
Still got my clothes on Hung up with how we got to star
In another sad song
I've got a friend who needs to fight
For something long gone
But what I really need to find
Is unconditional

Does it really matter to thin I'm going nowhere
Does it really matter today
When it feels like the world's slowly crumbling down on me
Well just let it break

I recall a day
When I fell into the rain with you
Whatever came our way
We'd laugh and we would make it through

Well it's hard to say you're doing well
When no one's listening
Your mags, your tv shows that tell
Of what I'm missing
I recall a day

Does it really matter to thin I'm going nowhere
Does it really matter today
When it feels like the world's slowly crumbling down on
me
Well just let it break

I recall a day
When I fell into the rain with you
Whatever came our way
We'd laugh and we would make it through

I remember days when nothing could compare to you
And this tonight I would like to think
That maybe
We could be alright
We could dance and we'd be

I remember days when nothing could compare to you
I recall a day
When I fell into the rain with you
Whatever came our way
We'd laugh and we would make it through

I recall a day
When I fell into the rain with you
Whatever came our way
We'd laugh and we would make it through

I fell into the rain with you
I fell into the rain with you
I fell into the rain with you
I fell into the rain with you
