I've lived in apartments, I've lived in a home
I travelled in trailers when I used to roam
But now in these places you won't have me dead
?Cause I'm happy I live in a split-level head

I do what I want to; no worries, no care
If anyone bugs me I climb little stairs
Way up to a level where I feel no threat
?Cause I'm happy I live in a split-level head

The stair climbing's nothing, I couldn't care less
I don't rush for busses and trains are a mess
There's no one to care for, I don't make a bed
?Cause I'm happy I live in a split-level head

I like how I'm living, I'm nobody's slave
My head's above water, so don't make a wave
There's no door to lock and no dog to be fed
?Cause I'm happy I live in a split-level head

So why should I move when the neighborhood's right?
No taxes to pay and no landlord to fight
Now I call this living, what's more, like I said
?cause I'm happy I live in a split-level head

Now you keep your ulcers, your ills, and what's new
You sure couldn't have them and live like I do
You think I have problems, but you do instead
?Cause I'm happy I live in a split-level head

I live with two people, I like both of them
He likes both of me and I like both of him
They're my alter-egos and to them I'm wed
?Cause I'm happy I live in a split-level head

There's no civil status in my neighborhood
And it's that kind of thinking, that keeps it so good
I don't take the lead but I like to be led
?Cause I'm happy I live in a split-level head

I've lived in apartments, I've lived in a home
(so why should I move when the neighborhood's right?)
I travelled in trailers when I used to roam
(No Taxes to pay and no landlord to fight)
But now in these places you won't have me dead
(Now I call this living, what's more, like I said)
?Cause I'm happy I live in a split-level head {together}

I do what I want to; no worries, no care
(now you keep your ulcers, your ills, and what's new)
If anyone bugs me I climb little stairs
(you sure couldn't have them and live like I do)
Way up to a level where I feel no threat

No taxes to pay and no landlord to fight

Now I call this living, what's more, like I said
(But now in these places you won't catch me dead)
?Cause I'm happy I live in a split-level head {together}

Now you keep your ulcers, your ills, and what's new
(I do what I want to; no worries, no cares)
You sure couldn't have them and live like I do

(What'd he say?)
What'd he say?
(Do you know what he said?)
I don't know what he said!
(No, I don't know what he said!)
