

XO

"Friends"

Visit "Friends" on MotoLyrics.com

You gave up at the start,
You know you're better than that,
And I'm not buying into the words that fall out of your mouth,
Can you still remember the long rides home when friendship meant everything?
It seemed like everyday we'd bounce off the walls, Can't we pick up where we left off instead of wasting time?
I know I've got a million things to say,
I've always got your back no matter what you put me
through,
I'll be there for you,
And with luck on our side we may just make it out of here all right.
So lets start it all over,
And tell me what you thought when life pitched you a curve ball and finally struck your ass out, You left home and you told me that you were done with everything, that life was cruel and now you've given up your dreams.
I've always got your back no matter what you put me
through,
I'll be there for you,
And when you finally get back home your luck will change some how, some way, some how.
I've got everything I've ever wanted and now I'll give it all to you if it can make you smile.
I've always got your back no matter what you put me
through,
I've always got your back no matter what you put me
through,
It's hard to find the words to say,
The bonds we break, the friend's we've made.
I'll always be there for you.

Visit XO page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.