[spoken intro:]

in this life, things may come to challenge our faith to see what we're made of the weather's that may be a challenge are improbability once again be strong when someone knows your story who loves you anyway though your emotions may be toseed to and fro knowing their shadow you'll still be in sheltered look up

green turns red falls to the ground water and ice kiss, and snow's all around rain clouds cry down to the earth then everything on the earth gets burned peaks and valleys, we'll all have our share born to make the strong and wise then tell a story of a thousand got overs there is a shadow

you know my story and love me anyway going and coming you are my day to day when I am lonely, I'll probably goes where far from a shadow around me passing the same, it's way too soon to believing unseen walk on the moon but who were they to steal from our sky though we are in trust, we still strive

peaks and valleys, we'll all have our share
born to make the strong and wise
there is a shadow around me
