"Burn"

And when the light shines in does it mean I'm willing to see what makes me so ugly

And when the light shines in will I be ready to know which path is worth walking
You know I'll wait a thousand years to taste your skin
again

I can't find any protection from your burning sun
Don't let me burn
I can't find any protection from your burning love Don't watch me burn

And when the yearning comes will I be able to rise up over my weakness
And with the damage done will I be ready to face whatever you say
You know I'll wait a thousand years to taste your skin
again

Chorus

Don't let it begin Don't let it start over again now Start this over

Chorus

I know you can walk away from all this anytime
I can't find any protection from your burning sun
