We seem to have the world here in our hands
It's smaller than we thought it was But now I understand, some of us survive, some will get torn
If I lose my confidence, I'll borrow yours

See me now, hear me out

Look for me tonight
And swear that nothing's gonna break our hearts this time
Save me from myself
And be the soundtrack to these stories that I tell

Take every single year from then until now Fables start to change and my head reaches through the clouds
And when I'm standing trial, I will need you
'Cause every wish we made is finally coming true

See me now, hear me out

Look for me tonight
And swear that nothing's gonna break our hearts this
time
Save me from myself
And be the soundtrack to these stories that I tell

Mirrors show me upside down
Clocks are counting backwards
Here without you I could drown
You pull me to the surface
Ticking time is running out
But we've got symphony still left inside us

Look for me tonight
And swear that nothings gonna break our hearts this
time
Save me from myself
And be the soundtrack to these stories that I tell

Save me from myself

And be the soundtrack to these stories that I tell
