"The Sound Of You And Me"

are you there? putting all the words together, painting your new masterpiece ocean air carrying reminders of that perfect pair we used to be someday everything ends, can we begin finding out before we're too late lost in between, the truth and the
i never been more ready to move on changing keys, giving up on me to find familiar things and try blending in, know this piece i will not forget the sound of you and me when we were friends

bring walls down, hear all my sound let me back in, love me again
bring walls down, hear all my sound let me back in, love me again, yeah

bring walls down, hear all my sound
let me back in, love me again.
