Seeing what the cause has left us,
there's no strength to minimize.
They try and try so hard to change us,
we see through these conscious eyes.

That the way to point the blame
I think it lays on top of everyone
Many people think the same still so much that must be done

So sit and ask yourself
Just when your final days will come
In a neverending war,
somehow they think they've already won.

And one day we'll see who's right,
one day they'll see just what they've done
then they'll see the obvious, time will tell it won't be long

If I only knew what time could tell
Just what the future holds Clock is tickin'
and on you as well

If i only knew what time would say.
What will happen for us?
Bring us back to re-al-i-ty.

If I knew what tomorrow would bring.
It's left its head.
Future's built for destiny!

Maybe I could find my destiny.
The road's a building block,
with rubber arms around the park to see

(now I've got to go somewhere
but abiding the cost.
Sometimes I'm just left wondering why life can be so hard.)

And only time can heal these wounds.
Go to bed by dinner,
Got to think of everyone.

An avalanche had filled the anger
Of a natural disaster
You should be our president
Soon become our single masters.

When we're inferior,
As we're surpassed by machines we build.
Of glass interior,
So aim the gun and shoot at will!
