We are the mast of glass of all we receive
We are the branches of the truth, the living tree
Know that this truth is strong and clear
We are the mast of glass of all we will be
We are the mast of glass of the living tree

There is a sacred path we close to your dreams
Each step you take will help your heart to be free
And like the sacred lady talked about the trail of light
Knowing that there always will be that special way to shine your light

Learning to love, learning to love again
Learning to love yourself

So in reaching out to learn the understanding
Be the perfect truth
Action speaks, the words of wisdom calling
Ever to be you

Living in the living tree,
Living in the learning
Living in the living tree,
Living in the learning

In the pages that you sing your songs again
You will write yourself a life
In the book that comes with every story
You will realize

Living in the living tree of life
Living in the living tree of life
Living in the living tree of life
Living in the living tree of life
Living in the living tree of life
