When needless words are spoken
The patience pushed too far
Self-restraint is broken
As if all love has left my heart

Standing in a face off
The blood is pounding red
We switch the course from 'seek and find'
To 'losing you' instead

We surely don't know love at all
The callers many
But so few the doors are open to
No one to catch you when you fall
Cemented in your reason
Will your precious pride protect you now

The thoughts are born
The words are spoken
The many promises are broken
We surely don't know love at all

We can't see clearly through the rage
We yield to pressures come of age
We surely don't know love at all

All

All

Fire in our anger
Like a lesson we forgot
Is forcing us relentlessly to be all that we are not
It's not my real nature
It's not what I want to own
But it always brings me to my knees before I'll let it go

We surely don't know love at all
The callers many
But so few the doors are open to
No one to catch you when you fall
Cemented in your reason

Will your precious pride protect you now

The thoughts are born
The words are spoken
The many promises are broken
We surely don't know love at all

We can't see clearly through the rage
We yield to pressures come of age
We surely don't know love at all

All

All

Surely don't know love at all

Surely don't know love at all

Surely don't know love
Surely don't know love at all (x3)

Can't see clearly
Words are spoken
Many promises are broken

Can't see clearly
Through the rage
Yield to pressures
Come of age

Surely don't know love
Surely don't know love at all (Repeat)
