The day's proved to come with its fair share of burns
The sun has now all but gone down.
I know the flow, so I say: "Moon, roll me away."

As long as I remember now,
The salty taste in my mouth
Has always forced me to spout
A song ringing like a shout.

This ebb and flow has got me less high than low.
This ebb and flow has got me less high than low.

I'm the tide, we both know I can't stay,
But nothing short of the moon could ever pull me away.
Fight as I might, this is just a display.
We both know we're only here at this beach for the day.

I'm the tide, we both know I can't stay,
But nothing short of the moon is gonna roll me away.
Fight as I might, this is just a display.
We both know we're only here at this beach for the day.

The day's proved to come with its fair share of burns
The sun has now all but gone down.
I know the flow, so I say: "Moon, roll me away."
