If we're gonna have it out, let's have it out.
You always said you were sure, I had every doubt.
If you need to talk for a little while,
I'll be here, but I'd be lying with a smile.

And now someone else has taken off
The clothes that someone else is taking off
The clothes that you once bought me.
It's sad because your love is like a bus.
I may miss you, but I know more will come.

I know I said I never lied
But there are a few things I just had to hide
This will hurt, a point that I must stress
Because the next 20 minutes, girl, surely won't be my best

I hate to say that alcohol saved my career
But if she didn't drink so much, then I wouldn't be here.
And my patience is a wicked thing,
I've out-waited wedding rings.

I know I said I never lied
But there are a few things I just had to hide
This will hurt, a point that I must stress
Because the next 20 minutes, girl, surely won't be my
best

What if I never get things right
And always lust after the the things that I can't have?
What if I never see the point?

I know I said I never lied
But there are a few things I just had to hide
This will hurt, a point that I must stress
Because the next 20 minutes, girl, surely won't be my best
